

Recharge mechanism of groundwater revealed by tracer approach in Kherlen River basin, eastern Mongolia

Yutaka Abe[1]; Tadashi Tanaka[2]; Maki Tsujimura[3]; Jun Shimada[4]; Satoru Higuchi[5]

[1] Geo-Environmental Sci., Life and Environmental Sci., Univ. of Tsukuba; [2] Inst. Geosci., Univ. Tsukuba; [3] Inst. of Geosci., Univ. of Tsukuba; [4] Dept. of Earth science, Kumamoto Univ.; [5] Grad. of Sci. and Tech., Kumamoto Univ.

<http://www.geo.tsukuba.ac.jp/hydro/mktsuji/index.htm>

The present study was conducted for clarify the recharge and flow system of the groundwater in the Kherlen river basin where is semi-arid region using stable isotopic compositions of oxygen 18 and deuterium, and geochemical characteristics of groundwater, river water, spring water and precipitation.